

Plioplatecarpus

COLORING ACTIVITY

Plioplatecarpus was one of the giant marine lizards, called mosasaurs, that lived in an ocean covering North Dakota about 75 million years ago. They grew to lengths of 25 feet, were whale-like, and had flippers rather than legs.

